RE: Gray wolves in Shasta County Threatening Public Safety, Livestock, and Property

Dear Director Bonham:

On behalf of the Shasta County Board of Supervisors (Board), I write to express our growing concern regarding the emergence and proliferation of gray wolves in eastern Shasta County. These wolves, which show no regard for human presence or basic deterrence measures, have already killed livestock, threatened local agriculture, and members of our ranching community.

Neighboring counties, including Lassen, Modoc, and Sierra, have declared states of emergency regarding these same wolves and the threat they pose to those respective jurisdictions, including territories within Shasta County.

Consistent with the goals stated in the 2016 gray wolf conservation plan, the Board requests the California Department of Fish and Wildlife (CDFW) assist ranchers and members of the public in every way possible to protect their livestock, property, and personal safety in the burgeoning presence of wolves.

Even if CDFW allows new and more assertive hazing tactics that may be helpful, the Board believes more aggressive action may be necessary. Based on local observations, the Board further posits that wolves are proliferating faster than CDFW is willing to admit, endangering both livestock and members of the public in the most rural areas of the state.

Shasta County requests the direct intervention of the Department of Fish and Wildlife to relocate problem wolves to prevent livestock losses, collaborate with local property owners to legally protect their children, livestock, and property, and continue to actively monitor the status and proliferation of wolves throughout northern California, and has declared a state of emergency in solidarity with our neighboring rural counties.

RESOLUTION NO. 2025-XXX

A RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF SHASTA
DECLARING A LOCAL STATE OF EMERGENCY
DUE TO A SIGNIFICANT THREAT TO PUBLIC SAFETY FROM THE PRESENCE AND IMPACT OF GRAY WOLVES IN CLOSE PROXIMITY TO RURAL RESIDENTS

WHEREAS, the Shasta County Board of Supervisors recognizes the importance of wildlife conservation and balanced environmental stewardship; and

WHEREAS, the reintroduction and continued expansion of the gray wolf (Canis lupus) to Northern California has resulted in significant adverse impacts on rural communities and livestock producers, including confirmed depredations in Shasta, Plumas, Lassen, Siskiyou, and Modoc Counties; and

WHEREAS, since December 2024, Shasta County livestock producers have reported the loss of multiple cattle and other livestock to wolf attacks. DNA tests have confirmed that gray wolves were responsible for a number of these losses, with additional incidents under investigation. These attacks have occurred near rural residences, posing a significant threat to public safety; and

WHEREAS, these wolves have shown a lack of fear toward humans, attacking livestock near homes where families with children are present. Recent attacks have demonstrated that the wolves have killed livestock without feeding on them, indicating behavior that poses a danger beyond simple predation. This creates an imminent threat to local livestock producers and the families living and working on affected rural properties; and

WHEREAS, no effective means currently exist to protect the public or livestock from these wolves, leading to concerns that without timely, practical, and locally informed solutions, individuals may feel compelled to take unregulated actions to protect their property and safety, jeopardizing themselves, their neighbors, and eroding public trust; and

WHEREAS, the County of Shasta finds the following threats to public safety:

Extreme peril to the safety of persons and property has arisen due to the presence of gray wolves posing an emergent threat to public safety; and

Persistent wolf attacks have led to devastating losses for livestock producers.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Board of Supervisors of the County of Shasta proclaims that a Local State of Emergency exists throughout Shasta County due to a significant threat to public safety caused by depredation from gray wolves in close proximity to rural residents within the County of Shasta.
